

Konica Minolta AccurioLabel Presses AL230 & AL400

The benefits of using a Konica Minolta digital label press are almost infinite. You can bring your product to market in a much shorter timeframe with this print solution. It will also help reduce your label warehousing. Another advantage of using a digital label press is reducing mistakes and paperwork with seamless work flow.

Quality Second User Konica Minolta Presses

Here at PPD, we understand the meaning of value, which is why we always have an excellent range of second user machines. Each machine is chosen by us based on volume and a thorough analysis of the equipment management list. Only machines which pass this inspection are put through our workshop, cleaned, parts replaced where required and tested for quality, feed and registration. Latest firmware and patches are applied before installation to a new home.

Second user machines can be purchased outright, leased or financed using your existing funders. Cost per click service agreements available or pay as you go time and materials arrangements.

Open and honest production print solutions.

Production Print Direct Limited was established in 2013 with the aim of making a clear distinction between the photocopier supply and service model our competitors offer, and the production print sector.

Firstly, our vision is to be a service-led business who focus entirely on the needs of the commercial print industry.

Secondly, we train our technicians to the highest standards. They work exclusively within the print for pay industry. This gives our customers the confidence to explore machine capabilities and work with us to overcome challenging medias, files and timescales.
